SUMMARY

My name is Steve, and I excel in backend web development, with a strong focus on Node.js. I bring over 5 years of experience crafting scalable APIs and micro services that power diverse web applications. Proficient in MongoDB for efficient data management and Express.js for robust server-side development, I thrive in architecting solutions that meet complex business needs. If you're seeking a dedicated engineer passionate about delivering quality APIs and keen on continuous growth, let's connect and shape the future together.
